

Are you using fruit netting to protect your fruit?

If you can pass a finger through the netting, it is not legal to use.

Choose white netting that your finger can't pass through

The best solution is bagging your fruits

It's illegal to use netting with holes bigger than 5mm x 5mm on fruit trees, veggie gardens, or plants at home.

This is because large-hole netting can trap birds, flying-foxes, possums, and other animals, often causing serious injury or death.

You can swap your illegal net for a free new one at Glenroy Community Hub. We're collecting old nets to recycle them and only have a limited number of new nets available.
